

CLIENT WELCOME BROCHURE

welcome

NICE TO MEET YOU

Photography has evolved since your grandma got married. Chummy smiles are no longer in fashion (thankfully!) and documentary style is now the most popular. Whilst many photographers promise that you and your guests will not even realise that they are there, I also promise that, when you do (because you inevitably will!) you will feel relaxed around me and it will be tons of fun.

On a more personal note... I spend an awful lot of time being silly, I dream of one day living in the countryside with lots of land I can live off, lots of dogs, a donkey and maybe a couple of pigs. I can't cook for the life of me so I end up eating way too many pizzas. I have a superpower - I can drink more than 15 coffees a day and I will always sleep like a baby at night. An unhealthy obsession (ok, an addiction!!) can also be a superpower right? The point is I always look at the bright side of things!

about us

IT ALL STARTED WITH...

After spending years taking pictures of my dogs, family and anything that moved (and begin a right pain in the bum!) I decided to attend a wedding photography course, which I loved. This gave me the confidence and the belief that I could actually do it as a carer and that I am good enough!

In my 1st year I was in the final for best Wedding Photographer of the Year, and best Newcomer....and the rest is kinda history....

This isn't just a job for me, it's a passion!

ZOE & BEN

OMG, I am ugly crying in my kitchen, I LOVE every single picture!

A romantic night scene featuring a couple in formal wedding attire. The man, in a dark suit, holds a lit sparkler, and the woman, in a white lace gown, looks up at him with a smile. They are surrounded by falling sparks and numerous lit sparklers on the ground. The background shows a dark sky with clouds and a street lamp. A semi-transparent grey box is centered over the couple, containing the quote and the author's name.

"Whatever is good for your soul, do that."

MAX DEPREE

"Mark this day in a calendar as a special one—I'm getting a husband!"
